Thurston Co. eyes purchase of Newton & Tebbet's wood mill

By MICHAEL DANIELS

L.A. Thurston Co. of Rumford has entered into negotiations to purchase the physical assets of Newton & Tebbet's Co. of West Bethel.

Both companies produce dowels, glue pins, turnings and specialty wood products.

A closing had been expected by Tuesday afternoon, but as of press-time negotiations were still under way, and the parties involved declined to comment in any detail on the sale.

The future for employees of the West Bethel mill is uncertain.

"We'll probably be coming through the seasonal change here and some other things that we're not sure about," said John Thurston, co-owner of the Rumford company.

The physical plant in West Bethel is in a bad state of repair, Thurston said, and it will be difficult to run. He said the company plans to sell the plant and the equipment to them.

Thurston said the company's main operation has been in Maine, and it's only going to have a small plant in West Bethel, he said.

STEMMING THE FLOW—The Errol Dam (above) is downstream from the Upper and Middle dams of Mooselookmeguntic and Upper and Lower Richardson lakes. Upper and Middle dams are undergoing a Federal Energy Regulatory Commission licensing process. Officials in some downstream municipalities, including Bethel, are concerned that if the operation of the dams is changed as part of a licensing agreement, the capacity of the system to contain floodwaters on the Androscoggin might be reduced. The Errol dam would be the first downstream facility affected by any changes.

Some worry dam changes could lead to flood hazards

• Downstream towns want to make sure their concerns are heard in federal licensing process

By ALISON ALOISIO

Bethel and other towns along the Androscoggin River will keep a close eye on the federal licensing process for the Upper and Middle dams of Mooselookmeguntic and Upper and Lower Richardson lakes. They affect the water flow in the Androscoggin River as it flows through Errol, Bethel, and Gorham, N.H., as well as Bethel and other downstream Maine towns.

The dams are owned by the Union Water Power Co. of Lewiston, and are undergoing a Federal Energy Regulatory Commission licensing process. The licenses are long-term, often 50 years.

The process will also be a long one, and include environmental and safety studies. It will culminate in the filing of a final licensing application in 1999.

But already, those who care how the waters flow are offering their comments on how possible changes in the operation of the dams might affect their interests. The changes could come as a result of the licensing process.

Included among the interested parties are the Appalachian Mountain Club, the Rangeley Lakes Heritage Trust, the city of Berlin, N.H., the town of Gorham, N.H., and now Bethel.

Their opinions are being actively solicited by EWP, in the hope that the final operation scheme will be as acceptable as possible to everyone.

A key issue that could have an effect downstream is water level fluctuations in the three lakes.

The lakes fill in the spring, and

CEMETERY CLEAN-UP PLANNED

The Bethel Bicentennial Committee is organizing a cleanup project for Woodland Cemetery on Route 5. The cemetery contains the graves of prominent Bethel citizens including Dr. Moses Mason, Dr. Nathaniel True, Dr. John Gehring, Congressman David Hammons and library benefactress Agnes Hastings Straw. The committee will seek volunteers to rake lots and prune trees, and plans eventually to clean and fix stones. Also in the works are plans for a formal cemetery organization to oversee maintenance and preparation of areas for future lots. Here, Dr. Stanley Howe stands next to a stone badly in need of repair. In the background is the stone of Dr. Nathaniel True, a founder of Gould Academy, and his daughter Mary, a famous teacher of the deaf.

Booze and graduation: a deadly mix

With graduation time approaching, Maine's Public Safety Commissioner, Colonel Alfred Skolfield, has issued a warning about the deadly mix of graduation and liquor.

Skolfield said, "We receive reports every year of graduation parties, mixed with alcohol, leading to tragedies. Diplomas and booze don't mix."

The commissioner said it's illegal to furnish alcohol to anyone under the age of 21, and it's also against the law for adults to provide a place for minors to consume liquor.

"Adults will sometimes furnish liquor for minors or provide space

School budget passes easily

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Nearly 500 voters took advantage of last week's first-ever SAD44 school budget referendum, and they easily passed the proposed general-fund budget of $7,017,756 and adult education budget of $175,297.

The turnout was lower than referendum supporters had hoped for, but it was still larger than the turnout at most school-budget meetings -- and it seemed to justify the supporters' argument that a referendum would put the budget before a larger, more representative group of voters.

Marie Bartlett, chairman of the Greenwood Board of Selectmen, said the vote worked very well. "We never would have gotten that many people in Greenwood for a non-controversial budget vote," she said.

Supt. Ron Jenkins called the vote "a decisive victory."

But Woodstock director T.L. Magee, an opponent of the referendum-style vote from the start, did not change his opinion.

"People I talked to found it incredibly confusing," he said. "The articles were written out (on the ballot), but no one was there to explain it to them," he said.

He cited the fact that some people had voted against an article authorizing the School Board to accept gifts, grants and other funds to spend on education.

"People voted against getting money," he said.

Roughly four out of five of the voters who turned out last week supported the budget (see town-by-town totals on page 2). Support was strongest in Bethel, weakest in Andover. The adult education budget had the least support, but still passed by a healthy margin of nearly three to one.

Bethel P.O. will move

• Selectmen will discuss Monday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Post Office will apparently be moving from its current location.

A USPS representative is scheduled to meet with the town selectmen at their regular meeting Monday, May 20, to discuss the proposals that have been submitted for locating a new post office.

Four sites suggested

Post Office officials have refused to discuss the proposals until meeting with the selectmen, but Town Manager Madeleine Henley said she was told that four locations were submitted: in Bethel Station immediately across from Railroad Street, on lower Main Street next to the ambulance barn, at the Wilma Gorman property on Mason Street, and the empty lot at the intersection of Main and Spring streets (formerly the site of Kennett Realty).

Henley said that she was told there was no bid from Brian Strickland, owner of the Main Street building that has housed the Post Office since the early 1940s.

All four of the sites that were submitted are on or bordering the "traditional village of Bethel," as defined in a November petition calling for the post office to remain in the central, built-up area of the village.

More than 600 people signed the petition. Barbara Brown, one of the petition drive organizers, said they will be meeting again this week to discuss the proposed locations.

Upton voters must make decisions on overdrafts

By ALISON ALOISIO

Upton voters will decide tonight (Wednesday) how to deal with approximately $41,000 in overdrafts to town accounts, according to selectman Richard LeComte.

Selectmen have scheduled back-to-back Town Meetings, starting at 7 p.m., to act on the remaining articles on the April 6 annual Town Meeting warrant and the overdrafts, respectively.

The April meeting was recessed after only 13 of 45 articles had been voted upon. Former assessor and bookkeeper Richard LeComte made the motion to recess until after the town received the auditor's report.

LeComte was elected selectman at the same meeting, replacing Constance Gagnon. The other selectman is Michael Grondin.

While the report itself was still not available as of Monday, LeComte said he believes enough information has been provided by auditor Ron Lubier to go ahead with the remaining articles.

A special Town Meeting will follow the annual meeting to consider ratifying some 1995 actions of the selectmen.

"There were budgeted and unbudgeted overdrafts," said LeComte.

An example of a budgeted overdraft is the $9,300 overdraft in the town's landfill account, according to LeComte. Five thousand dollars had been budgeted.

The overdraft included $4,000 spent on land fees connected with the town's purchase of the landfill from James River Co. LeComte said.

Other budgeted overdrafts include $2,896 in capital projects, $6,192 in payroll taxes, $4,538 in the town office account, $2,330 in insurance and $8,000 in miscellaneous.

Unbudgeted overdrafts included $15,429 spent on purchasing a town truck, spreader and plow.

Upton had received an insurance check for $14,750 after another

THEY WON'T MOVE HERE

To the Editor:

Let me tell you the reason I will not be moving to Bethel, Maine: Madeline Henley.

My wife and I have visited Bethel a number of times. We have subscribed to the Bethel Citizen for two years and were planning to possibly retire to your area, but any town that has a town manager and a board of selectmen who are as vindictive in their handling of Merton Brown as your newspaper articles suggest, is certainly not a town for us.

We recognize that Mr. Brown did wrong. We recognize that the town manager has the right to fire a town employee. What we don't understand is how after 20 years, the town manager, city attorney and board of selectmen can be so callous in their treatment of a long-term employee who made mistakes.

We always thought that the people of Maine were compassionate and understanding. We now know that some of them are not.

I hope that all of the town voters remember at the time of the next election, the actions of the selectmen in backing Ms. Henley's actions regarding Mr. Brown.

AND DR. JOE IS LEAVING

To the Editor:

This week I will be welcoming Dr. Tim Cornford into my practice here in Bethel. During the month of May, Dr. Tim will be taking over my orthopedic office located at the corner of Main and Railroad streets. I have decided to relocate out of town.

Our decision to leave Bethel came after the sudden passing of my father this past January. We decided at that time that we should move back closer to our families. Leaving Bethel was a very difficult decision for my wife and me to make. We have enjoyed our time here and have met many wonderful people. It has been both an honor and a privilege to have worked with the people of the Bethel area these past four years.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank some of the people that have helped me over the last few years. Thanks to Phil Jackson and Neil Graham and the great staff at Bethel Savings Bank. Also, thanks to John Jones and the wonderful people at Key Bank. I have also had some help from other staff over the past four years. Thanks have to go to Beverly Wadsworth, Loretta Hutchins, Jan Haines, Randy Olson, Chris Lupton and of course my wife Lori. Without their help, I could not have made it. There would be no DeMarco Chiropractic.

A word, but certainly not just a word, to all of the great people that have come into my life. It has been a privilege to have met you all. I have made many friends and will miss you all.

I will be in and through the month to help Dr. Tim become familiar with my office and the town. We will also be having an open house on Saturday, June 1, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. to meet Dr. Tim and for me to say goodbye.

My wife and I thank all of the fantastic and talented patients, both past and present, who have been a part of our lives and respect that they have helped us in our journey. Dr. Tim is an excellent orthopedic doctor and will be a great addition to the community. Bethel is a great town and we will miss it, but we are moving on.

Dr. Joe

EXPLORATIONS ART EXHIBIT

To the Editor:

The upcoming Explorations Art Exhibit will be dedicated to the memory of Robert Ferrera. The past January, in the final weeks of his life, he donated his lifetime collection of art materials and art to the Explorations Art Program. This generous supply of materials will be used in the program and will continue to be used for many years to come. The program works of art with these materials is a testament to his life and generous man who loved to make art and who passed his love on to his son who was cut short at the age of 48.

Robert's son, the exhibit will be one of Robert Ferrera's paintings in addition to drawings, drawings, and sculptures created by the student artists. The show will be at the Summit Hotel at Sunday, May 20, from 2 to 5 p.m. Refreshments are served and admission is free.

Dams

the water is stored behind the dams. It is then released through the summer to provide enough flow to generate hydropower and allow for wastewater assimilation from treatment plants downstream.

The resulting drop in lake levels can have a variety of effects in the area.

For example, boat access from lakeside docks may become more difficult.

Problems can also be created for wildlife. Loons, for instance, nest near the waterline. They are unable to walk on land, and a receding shoreline can leave them high and dry or not nesting at all.

Water quality and fish habitats may also be affected.

Because of these impacts, some of the parties involved would like to see the lake levels kept more stable.

Their grounds for that and other conservation-related requests stem partly from a 1996 amendment to the Federal Power Act.

As described in a 1992 AMC publication, the amendment mandated that FERC give "equal consideration" to the public's interests in rivers used for hydroelectric power. It is this legislation that allows the AMC and other interested parties to lobby for more water in the river. We ask FERC to require dam owners to do things like alter water flow schedules to satisfy the needs of recreational boaters and fishermen, improve access for hikers and paddlers, and protect endangered wildlife. The AMC is already pursuing such trade-offs in relicensing cases involving the Androscoggin, Kennebec and Penobscot.

But stabilizing the lake level could potentially create power, wastewater and safety problems downstream.

Looking back, more water behind the dams to maintain the levels in the summer could leave the hydro and wastewater plants in the Berlin and Gorham area short of water.

Knee-deep in water?

At the other end of the risk spectrum is the scenario of continuing to hold the water through the fall and winter.

Currently, the lakes are drawn down to provide an extra storage capacity cushion, in the event of heavy rains (such as those of last fall) or spring snow melt.

Not having that extra storage ca-capacity could be a cause for concern in Bethel, said Code Enforcement Officer Norm Putnam.

In response to a request from the town in 1991, the Federal Emergency Management Agency did a study of the floodplain elevations in the area, and determined they should be revised to a level generally lower than shown on maps at the time.

"If (the revision) permitted people to conduct activities (such as building) in areas that had previously been considered floodplains and floodways," said Putnam.

But now, with the possibility of less storage cushion behind the dams, the lower elevations could mean trouble.

"It could be a problem to people who have built based on the lower floodplain," he said.

He said Bethel Station, as well as other parties, have built in the lower plain.

There are similar worries upstream in New Hampshire. Berlin city manager Mitchell Berkowitz said if the flow through the dams had been modified significantly this season, "We'd be knee deep in water this spring."

In Gorham, town officials wrote a comment letter to UWP expressing their concerns about flood risk, and included a packet of publications by the Appalachian Mountain Club outlining its involvement in dam and other regulatory issues.

"We clearly think that these articles show the narrow interests of these groups, underscoring the lack of understanding and the consequences for those people who depend on the current flow regimen to survive," they wrote.

Selectman Mike Waddell is concerned the flooding issue may take a back seat to environmental ones.

He said some of the environmental groups have a person paid by UWP to represent their interests at licensing meetings, which he said can be quite technical in nature.

Gorham and Berlin have requested a similar representative to monitor the process for municipalities.

Berkowitz said Bethel and Lisbon Falls are joining in that request, but he has not heard from any other Maine municipalities yet. He's encouraging them to press for the common representative, too.

Putnam confirmed that Bethel has asked for representation, at no cost to the town. "We should get reports from Union Water Power that will give us the opportunity to evaluate what's going on," he said.

The 350 member Rangeley Lakes Heritage Trust, on the other hand, is concerned the licensing process could be dominated by the downstream users. The organization includes camp owners and others with an interest in the lakes.

But executive director Nancy Perlson said while having stable lake levels is important to the trust, no one wants to do anything to jeopardize the lives and safety of the people downstream. Flood control is important," she said.

Dr. Kenneth Kimball, the director of research for the Appalachian Mountain Club, said it's too early in the process to talk about what the final operating scheme for the dams might be.

"We need to try to figure out how best to do the study," he said. In the end, he said, "we may say the way they're doing it operating the dams makes sense, or there may be some minor changes that may get better flows," for example.

He said the focus of the process needs to be what's best for all of the users in the watershed, and he favors the collaborative approach.

Kimball also said there may be other solutions, besides stabilizing lake levels, to some of the issues. He said the loon-nesting problem might be addressed, for instance, by providing floating sites for nesting.

Sitting at the center of all this is UWP engineer and project manager Larry Perkins. He sees the process possibly coming down to some fine tuning to balance all the resources and come out with something acceptable to everyone," he said.

Perkins said in his opinion FERC would not allow the safety of people downstream to be jeopardized. While he can't predict the dam operation method when a license is finally issued, he said he's "optimistic the operation won't look a lot different than today."

However it turns out, Berkowitz said the licensing will have long-term implications.

"We should look at it as the cornerstone for what we do for the next 30 to 50 years," he said.

CLARIFICATION

Third directional-sign option. The Citizen's May 1 article on the proposal to replace MDOT directional signs noted two options: leaving the current system in place or replacing the blue signs with a town-run signage plan. But selectman Rick Whitney points out that he suggested a third possibility: that of putting up the welcome signs and kiosks, while leaving the MDOT signs in place. If the town system proved more effective, he said, businesses would gravitate away from the MDOT signs. However, Bill McFarland, who is in charge of MDOT's directional signage program, said such a combination would have little chance of approval. MDOT is very flexible in working with towns, he said, citing a number of examples, but in the end "you can't have two competing systems. It's one or the other."

truck had burned. It was voted at Town Meeting last year to place the money in the reserve account.

LeComte said Clayton Thompson, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, checked with the Maine Municipal Association about using the money to buy more road equipment.

"They said go ahead -- but he didn't tell them the money was in the reserve account. You can't spend it out of the reserve account," LeComte said.

He said Thompson had also signed a Bethel Savings Bank loan to borrow $16,000 over 54 months to buy a loader for the town.

The purchase had been authorized two years ago by townspeople, but borrowing the money had not been, LeComte said.

"And there was only one signature on the loan," he said.

No money

LeComte also said the town currently has about $35,000 to run on until more taxes come in.

"We don't have any money. We have two school warrants for $8,000 for two months' payments. I'd say the town should be looking for a tax anticipation note," he said.

The articles dealing with the overdrafts are as follows: to see if the town will vote to lapse budgeted overdrafts to surplus; to see if the town will vote to lapse unauthorized (unbudgeted) overdrafts to surplus; to see if the town will ratify the actions of the selectmen for borrowing $16,000 from the Bethel Savings Bank; to see if the town will appropriate $4,368.12 for the annual loan payment; to see if the town will appropriate $12,000 which was transferred from the DOT account on March 19, 1996.

LeComte and Thompson signed an April 30 document from Lubier acknowledging he had "discussed, checked, requested your written responses to the issues below pertaining to the 1995 audit on the Town of Upton."

The issues included treating the purchase of the town truck as a charge to the capital equipment account; agreeing that the 1994 insurance money cannot be spent in 1995 because the town voted to carry the balance forward; agreeing on the details of unbudgeted expenditures related to the truck purchase totaling $13,429.82; agreeing on the details of budgeted overdrafts totaling $28,511.82; agreeing the town did not approve the loan from the Bethel Savings Bank; agreeing to treat landfill closure reimbursement from 1994 and 1993 (received in 1995) as an unbudgeted revenue to go to fund balance; agreeing that $12,000 was withdrawn from DOT savings without town vote.

LeComte said the signatures on the document were simply an acknowledgment that the discussion had taken place, not an authorization.

LeComte also said Thompson "wouldn't have had such a hard time" with him over town finances if Thompson had not spoken with the Bethel Citizen last fall regarding a tax abatement issue.

Oxford County commissioners reduced the assessment on a house owned by Edward Brennan from $36,588 to $16,000.

The original value had been set by LeComte when he was assessor. Brennan is a friend of Thompson.

Calls to Thompson regarding the town finances were not returned.

School

Townpeople will not be voting at either meeting on funds to educate their children.

On April 6 they voted to raise the amount of money needed to educate the students in Errol, N.H.

But a discussion then ensued regarding changing back to SAD44 instead. After learning the SAD44 pricetag would not be covered by the money they had approved, voters turned down the last school article, which authorizes the school committee to spend the funds.

The committee was expected to come back at a later, special Town Meeting with figures for a SAD44 education.

That budget has not yet been finalized, but another special Town Meeting to act on it is now scheduled for June 20, according to LeComte.

Bomb threat earns two-year term

RUMFORD--Ralph Buck, 19, of Rumford has been given two years in the Department of Corrections for a Class C charge of terrorizing, in connection with a bomb threat to Telstar High/Middle schools on April 1. Buck waived indictment on the charge in Superior Court on Tuesday, according to a spokesman at Rumford District Court. Police said two witnesses were present when Buck made the phone call. Information provided by two students led to his arrest.

Fire equipment fund upped

BETHEL--Faced with the need to replace or repair the pump on a 1974 fire truck, the Bethel Board of Selectmen voted unanimously last week to add $4,000 to the proposed Fire Department equipment account. The selectmen and town Budget Committee had earlier agreed to recommend that Town Meeting voters allocate $19,000 for the account. But Fire Chief James Young told the selectmen last week that the truck pump, which had been having problems, had quit completely at a recent fire. Young said the estimate for repairing the pump was $8,500 to $12,000, but he felt certain the final cost would be higher.

Director resigns after one meeting

GREENWOOD--School director Kim Roak resigned from the SAD44 School Board after attending only one meeting. Roak was elected at the annual Town Meeting in March, and was sworn in at the April 8 meeting. She did not attend the meeting of April 22. Superintendent Ron Jenkins announced at Monday night's board meeting that he had been notified by Greenwood Town Manager Elizabeth Lavalette that Roak had resigned.

Americorps coming back

CHARLESTOWN, N.H.--A residential crew of 36 members will participate in the Student Conservation Association White Mountain National Forest AmeriCorps program this summer. Members will be provided work experience and training in outdoor conservation projects, trail construction and maintenance, environmental surveys, visitor and interpretive services, building construction and upgrading, educational outreach, erosion control, bridge building, community service projects, mountain patrol and recycling. They will work with the U.S. Forest Service. The positions will begin in July and run through November. Crews will be based in backcountry spike camps and rustic housing in locations throughout the forest. In return for their service, members receive room and board, a stipend, health insurance, time off/holidays, and an educational award of $2,362.50 on completion of service (900 hours). For information call 603-543-1700.

Possible rabid fox near academy

HEBRON--Students and staff at Hebron Academy have been advised to be on the lookout for a possible rabid fox that attacked the school nurse's dog at her home near the campus about 10 days ago. "It was frightening. I've never seen anything like this," said Andrea Powers. "This fox was really scraggly." She fired four shots with a .22-caliber gun, trying to hit the fox as it circled and lunged at her dog chained on a run in her backyard a quarter mile from the school. The shots missed and the fox ran off into the woods. The dog is under quarantine for 45 days, even though it was current on its rabies shots. It did not appear to have been bitten.

Irving drops plan for store

LANCASTER, N.H.--The Irving Oil Co. has withdrawn a plan to build a combination convenience store, gas station and restaurant on Lancaster's Main St., according to a report in the Coos County Democrat. Town Manager Peter Kulbacki had previously ruled that the proposal did not constitute a truckstop and was a permitted use for the site. But the town's zoning board of adjustment overruled Kulbacki, forcing Irving to seek a variance, appeal the ruling or modify the proposal. Truckstops are not permitted in that section of town. Company officials said those options were not viable. Kulbacki and Planning Board chairman Stan Knecht said Irving might have had a better chance if they had not taken, in Knecht's words, a "take it or leave it" approach with the town regarding their plan.

Electricity deregulation to be studied

PORTLAND--Maine's Public Advocate has joined with other consumer and environmental groups to voice concerns surrounding the possible restructuring of Maine's electric utility industry. Last year, the Legislature directed the Maine Public Utilities Commission to spend this year studying Maine's electric utility industry and developing plans for a competitive electricity market. The PUC is to report to the 1997 legislative session. The PUC expects to issue a draft report this summer. The Legislature directed the PUC to develop at least two plans for any orderly transition to a competitive market for the retail purchase and sale of electricity. For more information call the Public Advocate's Office at 207-287-2445.

L.L. Bean offers Visa card

FREEPORT--L.L. Bean and MBNA America Bank have introduced a new Visa card that enables holders to accrue credit toward Bean merchandise. L.L. Bean Visa card holders can also earn discounts on outdoor programs sponsored by Bean or contribute to a student conservation group. And they'll get free FedEx shipping in the contiguous U.S. on all purchases charged to the card and other "Outdoor Advantage Program" benefits. The L.L. Bean card is one of a growing number of so-called co-branded cards, which carry both a Visa or MasterCard logo as well as the name of a partner corporation. Airlines, car companies, baseball teams and other businesses sponsor credit cards. The card has a six-month, introductory 5.9 percent annual percentage rate and no annual fee. There is also a "Gold" version of the card. Cardholders can earn L.L. Bean coupons by charging on their cards. Charges earn discounts worth 5 percent toward future purchases. Charges elsewhere earn 1 percent in bonus points worth $1 each toward Bean merchandise.

More home-based workers

NEW HAMPSHIRE--Thanks to e-mail, fax, and phones, by 2002 10.5 percent of the nation's workforce will be salaried employees of companies but will work out of their homes, according to the federal Department of Transportation. A report in the New Hampshire Business Review said companies save on workspace and get credit in metropolitan areas for employees who don't have to commute during rush hour. But so far there's no trend in that direction in New Hampshire, where real estate is still relatively cheap and commuting is not difficult, according to Joe Wirtz, president of the Manchester Area Human Resource Association.

Faulty mountain bike forks recalled

WASHINGTON, D.C.--Nearly 70,000 Manitou Mach 5 suspension forks for mountain bikes are susceptible to cracks and breaks that may cause the front wheel to come off, the government said last week. The manufacturer, Answer Products of Valencia, Calif., is offering free replacements to consumers who return the forks that were sold from August 1995 to March 1996, the Consumer Product Safety Commission said. The company has received 49 reports of cracked forks, including five riders who suffered cuts, bruises and scrapes. The Mach 5 forks were sold as original equipment on more than 27,000 Trek, Fisher, Diamondback, Marlin, Mongoose and other high-end bicycles. More than 41,000 forks also were sold separately. The Manitou and Mach 5 logos are on the sides of the lower fork legs. The serial numbers are on the back of the lower part of the fork leg. Forks with serial numbers less than 5100086500 should be replaced. Those with serial numbers between 5100086500 and 5100149464 should be inspected. Consumers may contact Answer Products at 1-800-670-7446.

HELPING MOTHER NATURE--Members of the Community Lakes Association position a new loon's nest in a cove in the southern end of Lake Christopher. The nest, built by Arthur Jentoft, is a floating log frame with screening filled with leaves, dirt and grasses. The nest is anchored to the bottom of the lake with leeway to allow for rising and dropping water levels. A similar nest has been effective in North Pond for a year. A third nest is planned for the northern end of Lake Christopher, near the cove by the Maine Conservation School. Boaters are urged to leave the loons, especially nesting ones, alone, as they need their space. They can be observed, but from a distance. In the rowboat are (from left) Patrick Feeney, Jim Chandler and Nancy Willard.

From the Bethel Police log: OUI charge follows near miss with truck

On May 13 at 9:30 p.m. police received a report from the state police that a car had nearly hit a tractor trailer head on at the intersection of Routes 2 and 26 in Newry. A second report was then received that the truck and car had passed the Sunday River Brewing Co., headed east into Bethel. Police made contact with the truck driver, who said the subject vehicle was in front of him. The vehicle was stopped by police, and the driver, Angelo Campo, 41, (no address given) was arrested for OUI. He was also summoned for having a usable amount of marijuana.

Wednesday, May 8

At 8:10 a.m. a Bethel resident reported her son has made several long distance phone calls from her residence and place of business. She said he admitted to making them, mostly to a 912 number. She requested that charges be filed so he can pay restitution to the phone company. Police asked that she fill out a statement form, and a report would be turned over to the district attorney's office for charges.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

ing its operations at the Bethel facility.

The USPS is now proposing instead to cut the hours of service at West Bethel and reduce the level of staffing.

The new plan calls for the lobby to be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, but for the service window to be open only from 8 to 10 a.m. and 3 to 5 p.m.

A clerk rather than a postmaster would provide service.

On Saturday the lobby would be open from 8 a.m. to noon.

No decision has been made regarding when the new hours will take effect, according to Penny Niles, officer in charge at the West Bethel facility.

The Bethel selectmen's meeting Monday begins at 7 p.m. in the Town Office meeting room. It is open to the public.

Three cited for historic preservation

In honor of National Historic Preservation Week (May 12-18), the Bethel Historical Society presented three historic preservation awards at its May monthly meeting.

This year's selections were made by the society's Preservation Committee, which is chaired by Ken Bohr with the following members: Stuart Crocker, Walter Hatch, Kathy Hooke, Sally Taylor and Mary Valentine.

These projects were nominated and selected since they were completed during the past year and represent outstanding efforts in the field of historic preservation or stewardship. Chairman Ken Bohr provided the following citations in making this year's awards.

The John Philbrook House, built in 1895, is described by Randall H. Bennett in "Oxford County, Maine: A Guide to Its Historic Architecture" as the "finest Queen Anne residence on the street." Bennett continues, "Built under the supervision of Gilbert Tuell, the two-and-a-half story house with extensive ell and large barn follows the most common form for such houses, in that a hipped roof with lower cross gables is utilized, along with a prominent round corner tower. The building makes use of various architectural devices to avoid flat wall surfaces, namely the bay windows, first-story porches with delicate wooden spindle work, and the sheathing of clapboards and patterned shingles. The S-curved roof of the corner tower is a particularly interesting touch."

Patty Thurston has restored the original look of the property by ridding it of an unsympathetic adjoining building, painting the structure with more appropriate Victorian colors, and securing its nomination to the National Register of Historic Places.

The lower Main Street 1890s horse watering tub has been carefully restored by Richard Duka, with funds provided by the Rotary Club, and placed in a new prominent location adjoining the Bethel Common, with the assistance of D.A. Wilson.

The 1852 Albert Stiles house overlooking the Bethel Common, which Bennett calls "one of the county's best examples of vernacular Gothic Revival domestic architecture," has been carefully preserved by current owner Scott Oldakowski. This symmetrically-arranged "cottage" with steeply pitched roof and centered gable was the first "balloon frame" house on the common.

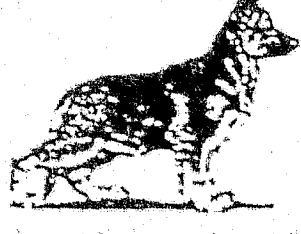

An example of "carpenter Gothic," the Stiles house has ornamental barge boards at the eaves, a balustraded portico with wooden scroll work trim, and wall sheathing to resemble stone. Oldakowski has preserved the stone-like front facade of the building and painted it in appropriate colors for the period and type of building. J.T. Keith Construction was the contractor that did the work.

TOURISM WORKSHOP

The Maine's Lakes and Mountains Tourism Council will sponsor a tourism workshop, "Speaking With One Voice," on Wednesday, May 22 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Summit Hotel, Sunday River Ski Resort. The overall goal of the workshop will be to gain input from community and industry representatives on several key issues impacting tourism, specifically education/hospitality training, regional marketing theme/identity and information centers.

These three areas received a great deal of attention and debate at a statewide conference sponsored by the Office of Tourism last February. Given the scarce resources available, what activities should the council pursue? What role should the State Office of Tourism have as it relates to these activities? Information received at the regional tourism workshop will provide the basis for the updated Maine's Lakes and Mountains Marketing and Development Strategy. In addition, this information will be forwarded to the Office of Tourism for further development of the state's five-year marketing and development strategy.

The Maine's Lakes and Mountains Tourism Council is a coalition of eight chambers of commerce, interested in promoting tourism in western Maine. The council's mission is to promote and advertise, with a global perspective, the state's identified Western Lakes and Mountains Region as an attractive lakes and mountains vacation experience. The creation of the council in 1992 is a direct result of a 1989 Regional Tourism Plan that was developed with the support of the Office of Tourism.

Director of Tourism Dann Lewis, Gov. Angus King, Maine Dept. of Economic and Community Development Commissioner Tom McBrierty are committed to developing a sustainable, adequately funded, statewide tourism strategy for Maine. A key piece to the strategy will be regional programs. However, prior to approaching the legislature to approve a significant increase in the tourism budget, the state and regions must agree and update their respective plans.

For more information on the workshop and a registration form, please contact Mary Lou Currier, Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments at 783-9186.

Bethel Lions Club

Mollycokett Day will be held on July 20, 1996 and the theme is "Bethel 200 Years." The parade will kick off the start of events for the day. The parade will start staging around 10:30 a.m. on Mechanic Street, and start up Main Street around 11 a.m. Miss Mollycokett will be the honored guest. We'd like to see the parade be bigger and better than ever before. We invite everyone, area fire trucks, scouting organizations, Bethel Rescue, antique cars, the Legion and VFW Posts and individuals to join the parade. There will be trophies for the floats and participant ribbons for everyone that joins.

On the common, there will be an assortment of vendors. Requests for vendor applications have been coming in to the Lions Club at a steady rate. There will be games, arts and crafts, food booths and rides for the children throughout the day.

The Lions Club is trying to set up time blocks of entertainment for the afternoon and evening. If anyone is interested in entertaining, please let us know, and you'll be on the schedule of events.

This year, the Lions Club is trying to bring back interest in the "Fiddlers Contest." A Western Maine Fiddlers Contest of sorts. It takes two ingredients to make it successful, contestants and money. Cash prizes and trophies seem to stimulate interest in the event. Money needs to be raised either through donations or sponsorship. Advertising in the Portland and Oxford County area should have some positive results. The contest will be divided into three categories: general, senior (65+) and junior. Eldon S. Greenleaf is the chairman for the contest and can be reached at 824-2040.

The Mollycokett festivities will end with the fireworks display at 9:30 p.m. Water pistols and silly string will be banned from the common this year.

People interested in participating in any of the events, or who have something new to add to the festivities can call any of the following people: general chairman and vendor chairman, Debra McMillin 824-2587; Princess Mollycokett Committee chairman, Malcolm Gould 824-2747; Parade Committee chairman, Larry G. Smith Sr. 824-2615 or Fiddlers Contest Committee chairman, Eldon Greenleaf, 824-2040.

for a party, not thinking of the repercussions. It's a serious violation and can also lead to civil liabilities," Skolfield said.

This is the first graduation season in Maine with the zero tolerance law in effect for underage drivers," the commissioner said. The law went into effect last fall. Skolfield said drivers under the age of 21 who have any measurable amount of alcohol in their system face an automatic one-year suspension of their driver's license.

COUNCIL ON ALCOHOLISM CHANGES NAME

The name of the Western Regional Council on Alcoholism, Inc. has been changed to the Western Regional Council on Addictions, Inc.

The new name is intended to more accurately reflect the agency's current focus on the prevention of alcohol, tobacco and other drug abuse.

Upton

by Amy Geiling
Greetings! Hope every mother had a pleasant Mother's Day. Reports of many moose, hares and birds have come our way. Two geese visited the store and entertained our customers. Nancy Thew from Newry says the mosquitoes are back, but no signs of black flies yet. This means the fishing is good!

You may have heard by now, but Jerry and I will be opening a year-round campground in Cambridge, N.H. Hopefully by Memorial Day weekend. Plans are to start with 10 to 15 tent sites and six R.V. hookups. The campground will be located where the James River Camps were. The office and lodge need a little TLC, but the grounds are high and dry. Watch for ads.

Reminder, town meeting is Wednesday, May 15 at 7 p.m.

Trivia time... Roads and bridges expenses reported in the Upton Annual Reports doubled in cost from 1905 at $500 to 1917 at $1000.

"Ibely Ibely Upton, that's all folks!"

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing
Joe Pete Appleby went on a fishing trip to New York recently with Craig Ryerson and Delwin Wilson. They fished in Lake Ontario for brown trout and had very good luck. They were gone three days.

Chester Brown had the misfortune of taking a bad fall while smelting recently. He broke his neck and is in a brace for a number of weeks. The doctor said with care it will heal in time.

Nick Clements' cat went to the vet recently. When Nick got ready to take the cat in for the shot, it took off into the woods. It has now been found and is okay.

While at the gas station this week, I got some more information on the trip that Joyce and Ellsworth Hathaway took recently. Among other places they went to Dollywood and also visited with their son David in Texas. It was quite hot some of the time while traveling.

Esther Davis had a family gathering on Sunday. A snack lunch was enjoyed in mid-afternoon. Those attending were the host Esther, Pat Tibbels, Lou Haskell, Tim and Jackie Kennaugh, Ethel Davis, Edith Deegan, Bruce and Tory Johnson and Ryan and Jerri Shorey. A good time, as usual, was had while visiting.

One day last week Esther and her three sisters, Martha Hines from Jay, Emily Pike from South Livermore and Marion Whittemore of Livermore Falls had lunch at Bonanza restaurant in Oxford.

I saw my first hummingbird at the feeder this week. I especially enjoy watching these interesting little birds.

Two May birthdays that I missed are Alicia Stevens and Gilda Hill. Happy Birthday to both of you. Also, anniversary wishes to Brian and Donna Knightly.

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society reports that the museum will be open June through early September on Saturdays from 1-4 p.m. Larry has given a large print of the ocean.

Quote of the week: "I've learned that as one goes through life, one learns that if you don't paddle your own canoe, you don't move."

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

May, and what a lovely day! As I sat in my swing this afternoon, I watched a hawk, a tiny speck of life flying against a few clouds, as they moved upward and leaned over the pond. The sky became bluer as they climbed, or maybe it only seemed that way. The hawk was on an upward draft between the clouds. Occasionally it would bow and dip as it went back and forth between the white buildings of air. What a picture spread out below him: vast swaths of forest land encircling the waters, weaving lines of streams moving into the pond. He cut through the air with precision, shaping his course, while all the time his amber eyes looked down and his wings spread tirelessly.

I, too, looked across the valley to the green heights, warm, yet hazy in the distance. My eyes followed the expanse of weather worn rocks in different places and through the forest, spruces, birches and pines. I remembered that lichens form veils over these rocks, while mosses and many flowering plants grow there. Partridges go booming off to one side of a path, while the rabbit goes to the other. I thought of the many times I had been among it all; the miles I had covered and the strenuous climbing which brought weariness to my muscles but beauty to my mind.

"My heart was quite enchanted by the beauty everywhere, the hills and fields were fairylands, sweet and green and fair."

Last Saturday was a joy day for me. Several of my nieces and nephews came to rake and clean up my lawns. A task they do for me every year. I am always grateful to have them and I enjoy their fun and laughter. It is hard to believe that so many leaves are there until you see them in piles. So many times I have silently said, "Thank you with love to them, this week." They also brought me a beautiful May basket filled with "goodies."

Fay Holt had a very nice day on May 7, her birthday. Her husband took her out for dinner, and later her family gathered with lots of goodies for an evening "feast." She had lovely gifts including a dozen red roses. Beautiful!

Several of Rena Curtis' children were with her on the weekend.

Nestor Tamminen is doing well after his surgery.

Zilpha DiArenzo has returned to her home here, after the winter with her family. We are glad to have her with us again.

Songo Pond

by Alice Kimball

Do we really need another rainy day? The weatherman says "yes", but my garden is just getting dried out enough to get into it without getting muddy.

A flock of nearly a dozen loons was seen recently on the shore on the back side of the pond.

Visitors here on Monday were Mrs. Eleanor Frechette of Oxford and Mrs. Merlie Stone of South Paris. Al Barth was a business caller one evening.

Water level in the pond has gone down, so most of the wharf was visible for the first time this year.

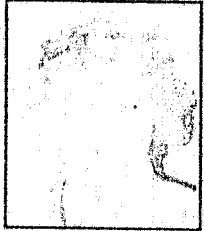

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Awalt of Augusta were visiting relatives one day this week.

Mrs. Agnes Lahti of Waterford spent an afternoon with her brother Bill Bancroft, while Phyllis went out to do some errands.

Mrs. Helen Curtis of Mechanic Falls spent two days this week with me.

Life, like a home, needs love for its foundation.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

Newry Community Church services were held on Sunday with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message of the day was: "Great Expectations" from Psalm 29. "The Lord will give strength unto his people...The Lord will bless his people with peace."

The Windy Valley Snowmobile Club met Tuesday night at Bill and Sylvia Wight's residence, with Owen Wight presiding. Secretary Sylvia Harrington read the notes of the last meeting and took some notes during the evening. Treasurer Bob Lowell brought the finances up to date. M.S.A. Director/Alt Bill and Sylvia Wight reported on their Maine Snowmobile Association 312th directors' meeting of April 20 at Jeff's Banquet and Convention Center in Brewer. Trail Master Leon Dunn spoke on some bridge repairs, etc. There was no safety report from Don Gray who was absent. The lawn sale date is June 15 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Rain date is Sunday, June 16. Some signs will be posted. There was some talk on the Club House, and a supper around September, when the club resumes their activities. The meeting adjourned and coffee was enjoyed with more conversation. Next meeting (the last one of the season) will be Tuesday, June 4, at the town building.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis and Louise Teley of the Newry Bowling Gang were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week. On the overall scores, Karlene was high on the singles with one string of 109. But Gil beat her by one pin on the triples. Betsy had five spares, Karlene and Gil each had three and Eleanor had two. From Oct. 18, 1995 to April 8, 1996 Karlene scored over 100 three times, with her highest score at 119. Betsy was the highest scorer three times, with 108 her top score. Jackie, a guest from Rhode Island, had the highest score once, with 110.

Belated happy birthday to Teri Littlehale.

The Newry Ladies Auxiliary met on May 9 with five members present: Olive Anderson, Sheila Fleet, Karen Comeau, Brenda Wight and Nancy Wight. They had to meet in Brenda's van since they didn't have a key to get into the town office. Nancy gave the finance report and Sheila spoke about the upcoming pig roast.

'Lucky Stiff' at Gould

Gould Academy's student players will perform Lynn Ahrens' award-winning musical comedy "Lucky Stiff" on Friday, May 17 and Saturday, May 18. Based on the book "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" by Michael Butterworth, "Lucky Stiff" creates wild scenes with high-energy singing and precision choreography.

The story follows the adventures of Harry Witherspoon (Chip Liscombe '96), an unassuming shoe salesman, as he attempts to inherit a fortune by fulfilling the last wishes of a deceased uncle. Surrounded by a zany cast of characters whose interests range from revenge to homeless canines, Witherspoon manages to lose his uncle's corpse and six million dollars in Monte Carlo. In the meantime, however, he finds something worth more than money.

"It's an extremely fast-paced show with very quick costume and set changes," commented director Douglas Alford. "The music and movement make it just plain fun for the audience to watch."

Director of choreography Debbie Kulik does not describe "Lucky Stiff" as a "dancing show," however. "It's a musical with a lot of production numbers," she said. "Every song has a lot of activity which fits the storyline. It's been a challenge to synchronize the acts, but the students have done a great job with it."

Along with Liscombe, "Lucky Stiff" stars Jason McKenzie '97 as Vinnie DiRuzzio; Bonnie Crocker '96 as Rita LaPorta; Anneliese Bass '96 as Annabelle Glick; Mike Rose '97 as Luigi Gaudi and Nate Thibodeau '98 as Tony Hendon. The supporting cast includes Ethan Covey '96, Chris Everett '97, Jess Canteio '96, Anna Marancik '97 and Teri Chabourne '98.

Paul Nelson is the musical director, with Faye Hill on piano, Brendan Bass on bass and Don Cote on drums. Both shows start at 7:30 p.m. in Bingham Auditorium and are free and open to the public.

Agnes Gray School

by Marta Clements

Our No-TV Week was a great success with a majority of students participating. In addition to our evening activities, the entire school celebrated on Friday morning with ice cream sundaes for all, free time out doors and the drawing of 50 prizes. Thanks to everyone who made the week so successful.

Several field trips are being held, thanks to all our fundraising efforts. The kindergarten class recently visited Shop n' Save in Oxford for a behind-the-scenes tour. The fourth grades are taking their annual trip to Augusta on May 22, to visit the State House and the State Museum. My annual fifth-grade trip to Boston is coming up on May 24. We have been thinking about and planning the trip all year. It doesn't seem possible that it's almost here.

On this same day, the second-graders are going to meet their pen pals from both Oxford and Hebron. All three groups are going to meet in Oxford for fun and a picnic. Our third-grade teacher has started her famous ice cream walks during our Friday activity periods. Children with permission, and money for ice cream, walk to West Paris General for the treat, and are back in time for the buses. Children look forward each week to the activity period, and the ice cream walk is a popular choice.

Our first-grade teacher is sending home an appropriate reminder for all of us. Even though spring is here, and we are beginning to have some beautiful weather, it is still cool in the morning. Children should wear, or bring, a sweatshirt or light jacket each morning. Also, it is very helpful to have the children's name somewhere on these items in case they get misplaced. This applies to all grade levels.

The sixth-graders have not been on an actual trip to Egypt, but you might think so if you visited their room. They have been studying Egypt, and have used the overhead projector to create some gigantic Egyptian art work. Also, a visit from Mrs. Richardson was doubly appreciated because she brought in some interesting artifacts and information to share with the class. The boys and girls are also practicing writing hieroglyphics.

Grades three, five and six have worked hard on the CTBS Achievement tests. We also did some things for fun during the week: extra snack breaks, pizza party, kick ball, games and art activities to name a few.

The entire school sends best wishes and many thanks to Roanell Cummings for his many years of service to SAD17. Mr. Cummings retired last week. Each class made Happy Retirement cards expressing their thanks for all he did for us. We will miss him.

Be watching for more information from Dollars for Scholars concerning a new program. It is called Walk For Me, and is a way to set up individual scholarships for your own child's future education. Get involved now and save for the future.

CHURCH RECEIVES GRANT

The Chapel Aid Society of the West Bethel Union Church recently received a Community History Grant from the Maine Humanities Council as part of their 20th Century Project.

The matching grant will assist in publishing a history of the church during its centennial anniversary in 1996. Other activities to celebrate this milestone will include an oral history night and a special church service with Robert Lively, religion educator from University of Maine at Farmington, as the guest speaker. This service will be in conjunction with a Bethel Bicentennial weekend in August.

The Church will be producing one of the 31 local history projects sponsored by the Maine Humanities Council. These projects will help document the overwhelming changes, economic, social and cultural, that have taken place in the 20th century in Maine.

Has anyone seen

MARVIN

On April 30, 1996 our Black Male, 2 year old cat left home to cruise the orchard on Grover Hill.

Marvin is one of the Groan & McGurni lines, very handsome, short thick hair. On his neck beneath his chin there is a tiny white line of hair about 1" long.

For those who worry about kittens or diseases he has been neutered and has had all the shots that are necessary thanks to DVM Gary Stuer.

The first year of Marvin's life he resided on Railroad Street, running the railroad tracks, pestering the girls at Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce, and frequenting Suds Pub.

He is very street wise. Country living has its own hazards, like fisher cats, coy dogs, and things that go bump in the night. If not country wise he may be in kitty heaven chasing mice angels and eating Fancy Feast out of crystal globets.

If anyone knows of Marvin's whereabouts please call daytime 824-2738 ask for Beverly and evenings and weekends at 824-2842.

Thank You
